About TrueClean

San Diego-based TruClean uses the latest technology to chemically bond its antimicrobial coating to the surfaces it is applied to. The long-lasting coating works immediately after application, neutralizing microbes on contact and creating self-cleaning surfaces that work 24/7. TruClean’s active ingredient is EPA registered and stabilized with proprietary ingredients to deliver high performance bonding capability. The coating contains a unique molecule that is like a microscopic sword. When microbes contact the surface they are pierced and eliminated. Where most commercial products are effective only when wet, TruClean is continuously working and is not removed by routine cleaning processes. This surface coating technology is currently being used both domestically and internationally with multiple locations in South Korea, Singapore and China, including all 4 terminals of the Changi Airport in Singapore and the Chinese CDC in Wuhan, China to help control the Coronavirus outbreak. The TruClean surface coating functions as a semi-permanent disinfectant that lasts for up to 1 year without washing off a surface. While approved as a long lasting disinfectant in multiple international markets, TruClean is a Treated Article under US FIFRA regulations. For more information, visit truclean365.com.
